SKIN CARE PRODUCT MANUAL FOR PROFESSIONALS

ABOUT RAYA

Raya began in Los Angeles in 1979 as a European esthetician trying to find a skin care line for her one room skin care salon. She was disappointed with the established skin care lines available at the time. Their prohibitive sales policies, inflated prices, and high minimums made it difficult for a small salon to open an account and even more challenging to afford their products. With the help of her family, and her extensive training and experience in Eastern Europe, she started a small-scale skin care product line. As time passed, her small skin care line evolved into a state-of-the-art, 100,000 sq. ft. cosmetic research, development and manufacturing facility in North Hollywood, California, with over 150 high quality products available in stock. In addition, her one room skin care salon became Raya Spa, one of the largest (12,000 ft sq.) and most successful Skin Care Salons in Los Angeles, California www.rayaspa.com.

Raya attributes her success, in large part, to the independent aestheticians who discovered the advantages of using Raya Products. The combination of their loyalty, time-proven high-quality products, and affordable prices have allowed Raya Laboratories to become a proven leader in professional quality skin care products for over four decades.

We have been loyally dedicated to supporting thousands of skin care professionals in their journey towards creating a profitable, reliable and manageable business, many of whom from humble beginnings have grown into very successful full-service salons and spas, became experts in their field, and are still using and retailing Raya's products to remain successful and profitable in the very competitive and ever-changing skin care industry.

Moisturizing and Special Treatment Products

Every good skin care moisturizer and treatment product has the ultimate goal to regulate and stabilize the skin's own acid mantle, a very thin layer of emulsified oil-and-water with a slightly acidic pH. This mantle, or hydrolipid film, varies according to skin condition and type. The closer a skin product matches the mantle's composition, the more readily the skin will absorb it. Raya utilizes only carefully selected, purely natural botanical oils, natural moisture retention agents, and botanical extracts to stimulate the skin's self corrective mechanisms.

515 Face-Line Lift

SHOP NOW

This new approach to anti-aging delivers a two-phase facial rejuvenation system designed to smooth, fill, lift and improve the appearance of facial lines and wrinkles instantly. Contains concentrated active multi-peptides for long term benefits.

Phase one: Micro-Tensing Serum. Tightening polymer and seaweed provide immediate lifting action for a firmer skin appearance.

Phase two: Moisture Infusion Cream. Hyaluronic Acid, sodium PCA, oxygen boosting ginseng extract and multi-vitamins help to smooth, plump and add volume to the skin. Multi-peptides help to improve the appearance and depth of fine lines caused by facial expression.

DIRECTIONS:

For best results the skin should be clean, dry and free of oil. Apply a thin layer of the serum (phase 1) onto the targeted area in need of lifting or the entire face. Avoid the hair line, eye brow hair and eye lids. Allow 2-3 minutes for the serum to dry (only one layer of serum should be applied). A lifting and firming sensation on your skin will be evident at this time. Apply moisturizer (phase 2) to the entire face. Wait for the cream to absorb (about 1 minute) before applying any other cosmetics. Could be used alone or under make-up. Lifts instantly. Results last until washed off. Over applying or applying multiple layers once the serum is dry can cause a white residue. If residue develops after drying and moisturizer application, smooth over with a small amount of additional moisturizer.

651 Phytozyme Exfoliating Mask (in two parts)

SHOP NOW

651A POWDER

“Phytozyme” is a professional, non-chemical, two part exfoliating Fruit Enzyme System. It allows the Esthetician to offer a truly exceptional professional exfoliating treatment, that is an essential step of any active salon facial skin care program. When used as instructed it helps to dissolve excessive cell build-up on the stratum corneum, soften comedones, and assists in removing other impurities which clog pores.

DIRECTIONS:

Mix equal parts (about two tablespoons) of powder [Part A] and two tablespoons of activating gel [Part B] in a bowl and stir until a smooth paste consistency is achieved. Apply over cleansed skin (our Mint Soufflé is a great deep pore cleanser to be used prior to Phytozyme application). Allow to remain on the skin for up to 8 minutes (for dry, mature, and sensitive skin), or up to 15 minutes (for oily and problem skin). Remove with warm water and cotton. Proceed with extraction and other treatments according to the client’s skin type. To achieve desired results in skin texture, clarity and firmness, the Phytozyme treatment is recommended for use once every 4-8 weeks. Steaming the face prior or during the treatment will increase the enzyme activity and therefore should not be done on a first time application. A patch test should be performed behind the ear, prior to first use, to test for allergic reactions (discomfort, itching, or redness).

Products with Alpha, Beta, and Multi-Fruit Hydroxy Acids

Alpha-Hydroxy Acids (AHA's), the naturally occurring weak fruit and food acids, have been an exciting development in the skin care industry. They show excellent results in improving the collagen creation and the exfoliation of epidermis dead cells. The AHA's include glycolic, lactic, citric, malic and tartaric acids. Glycolic acid is present in sugar cane, lactic acid in sour milk, citric acid in fruits, malic acid in apples, and tartaric acid in grapes. Use and effectiveness of these acids was well known by ancient and folk medicine. Ancient youth remedies such as milk baths to smooth the skin or stale wine application to the face to diminish the wrinkles are well described. The widely used glycolic acid has the smallest molecular size of any of the AHA's and is believed to have the best penetration ability into the skin.

Our products with alpha hydroxy acids also incorporate another important development in modern skin care - Use of atomized oxygen as a penetrative vehicle for Vitamin A Palmitate. Once the Vitamin A Palmitate penetrates the skin, it is converted to weak retinoic acid by the body's natural biochemical processes. This conversion is well documented by Hoffman-LaRoche in Switzerland, which manufactures the retinoic acid-ingredient used to make Retin-A creams. This group of products containing alpha-hydroxy acids does not replace our home care regimen or the monthly salon visits. It complements our existing extensive product line, and makes it more complete and competitive. We are confident you will benefit from the excellent quality and efficacy of these products and our competitive prices.

The skin care industry is presently responding to the consumer demand for sophisticated natural and environmentally-friendly products. The purpose of our custom blending Line is to focus on the natural approach to personal care, and to provide options on how to incorporate botanicals and other beneficial components using in-salon custom blending techniques. We hope to offer estheticians a new perspective on natural ingredients for personal care and the ability to use their own professionalism, knowledge and expertise to offer their customers the real benefits of nature. All products for custom blending are only for professional use by licensed estheticians.

The Significance Of Custom Blending

Since the dawn of history, the use and application of natural substances, botanical and biological products, have been known to man. Today's botanicals are used individually and in combinations with each other, creating a synergistic effect. In the beginning, cosmetic-like preparations came only from nature. With the introduction of synthetics, the cosmetic industry moved away from natural ingredients. Now we witness the return to naturals and the industry's current trend toward custom blending. Custom blending allows the esthetician to customize products to the clients individual needs. Our extensive variety of botanical extracts, super nourishing oils, vitamins, minerals, seaweed ex- tracts, and biological extracts permits the esthetician to take nearly any of our ready products or blank bases, choos- ing those that are well suited for the clients skin type, and transform them into custom treatment products which will deliver the extensive benefits of the custom blending natural substances. With the incorporation of this ap- proach to skin care the esthetician acquires a new domain in which she gains a strong customer loyalty, the advan- tage of maintaining and utilizing the latest ingredients, and develops a reputation of expertise and professionalism.

Customer loyalty is essential in any profession, but especially in skin care, where the client is entrusting their most visible asset - their skin. When an esthetician custom blends a product for a client, the client can physical- ly see the custom ingredients being added, so there is no speculation or doubt that the product will be effective. Furthermore, the client knows that she cannot simply go to any salon for such a product. In order to receive the product that is specifically customized to her needs she must go to the esthetician that utilizes custom blending. Another advantage of custom blending lies in the ability of keeping up to date with the newest trends in skin care without having to continuously invest in numerous different lines of cosmetics. When new ingredi- ents appear or reappear on the market magazines and television immediately educate and influence the re- tail customer in the benefits of using a product with such components. Our Custom blending Line allows you to simply add many of these new ingredients to a product that is appropriate for the individuals skin type. Creating, not only a customized product but, a product that follows the latest developments in current skin care. We offer over 60 European quality ready skin care products and over 100 pure custom blending ingredients that you receive directly from the manufacturer. From this array of choices the professional esthetician can develop an unlimited spectrum of customized products.

The ability of an esthetician to apply the methods of custom blending demonstrates an exceptional quali- ty of expertise and an essential character of professionalism that the clients of today expect and demand.

Salon And Spa Services That Successfully Incorporate Custom Blending Ingredients:

Face Treatments, Body Treatments, Paraffin Treatments, Body Wraps, Body Massage, Facial And Body Steam, Sauna, Steam Room, Vichy Shower Applications, Hand And Cuticle Treatments, Lo- calized Target Treatments, After Wax Treatments, Scalp Treatments, Plastic Surgery Follow-Up

Ingredients Usage Suggestions

The Custom blending extracts, blends, oils, biological, minerals, and vitamins are truly potent ingredients that are NOT made to be used directly on the skin. They are made pure and concentrated in order to be added to either ready products or blank bases.

The % dosage of ingredients to be added to a base product varies. Usually this is 1-3%. For some products it can be as much as 5-10% (see suggested dosage). This is an approximate and rough average. An Esthetician has to use her professionalism and prepare a blend accordingly to the customer's skin type and skin condition.

Applying custom blending to your product line and services is very simple:

1. Choose a ready product that correlates to the clients skin type.
2. Add the appropriate amount of the custom ingredient that you professionally feel will further enhance the product you have chosen and further benefit the client's skin. (Or create a completely new product by using our blank base - cream, gel, mask, etc.)
3. Add the extracts, oils, vitamins, mineral, seaweeds, cosmetic preservative, and sun screens of your choice.

Your imagination and professionalism is the limit. Custom blending gives you the opportunity to put yourself ahead of the competition.

Caring For Skin The Natural Way

Many people do not realize that our skin is our most vital organ, and the largest living organ of our body. Its thickest points are the soles of the feet, the palms of the hands and the back. At its thinnest point, the eyelids, the skin measures only 1/25 inch. The main functions of the skin are to regulate our body temperature and, more importantly, to protect our internal organs against the offenses of the outside environment. The elasticity of the skin is a protecting shield against shock and damage to the body. Skin is divided into three layers: the epidermis, dermis and subcutis; each with its own unique functions. I. The Epidermis: This is the highly cellular uppermost layer, usually comprised of 15-20 layers that overlap at the skin's surface. The epidermis continually undergoes the birth, life and death of cells which are created at the base of the epidermis and, after a two-week migration, are shed at the surface.

This cell activity is performed by three layers each with its own responsibilities. a.) The Basal Layer: the bottom most layer Containing melanocytes, the pigment producing cells; and where cell growth begins. b.) The Prickle Cell Layer: the middle and thickest layer, Containing the hair-like projections on the skin. c.) The Horny Layer (or "acid mantle"): the uppermost layer of the epidermis, constantly shedding cells at the skin's surface. II. The Dermis: Made up of fibrous cells and housing the elastic support of the skin. Nerve endings located in the dermis detect changes in temperature and feel pressure, pain and vibration. III. The Subcutis (or "fatty layer"): has two important functions: to serve as a cushion for vital internal organs, and as a storage site for reserve energy for the body.

Our skin is one of our most visible and delicate assets, and is subject to more than its share of abuse. If we do not pay attention, it can "cry" for help in the form of a rash, infection or just plain aggravated neglect, as in the form of severe dry skin in the wintertime. There are an infinite number of products touting daily regimens designed to maintain healthy skin. However, we need only remember five basic ways to care for our skin: cleansing and exfoliating, toning, moisturizing, sun protecting and nourishing.

i. Cleansing and Exfoliating

Each day our skin comes in contact with dirt, oils, cosmetics, environmental pollution and perspiration. Our only defense is cleansing the skin. Extra mild, "light" cleansers today are benefitting from the addition of plant extracts that offer cleansing of their own as well as foaming compatibility. Botanicals and infused fragrance oils are compatible for all of these products and have added benefit to the consumer. Exfoliators, used to slough off the dead uppermost layer of the skin and leave the skin with a smooth, glowing complexion, are commonly formulated with ammonium glycolate and other salts of Alpha Hydroxy Acids.

ii. Toning

Toners are products intended to shrink the pores after cleansing and refreshing the skin. Also called fresheners and bracers, these products are skin sensitizers and when applied topically give a cool, tight and tingly feel to the skin. Astringents, pore-refiners and refining lotions are all relatively similar products which are basically stronger concentrates of those listed above. Today's toners/astringents are being reformulated with botanicals and Blends marketed for those unable or unwilling to tolerate alcoholic solutions. Natural astringents, such as ginseng, elder and angelica flowers, horse chestnuts and sage leaves, to name a few, tend to be more gentle and soothing in nature while providing astringency. Peppermint and spearmint oils can also be added for their cooling and moisturizing effects, and as fragrant components. Menthol and camphor are frequently and commonly used as well.

iii. Moisturizing

Young skin differs from mature skin in many ways. In our teen years, oil (sebaceous) gland secretion may trigger flare-ups of problematic skin. During our mid-life, diminished oil gland secretion contributes to dry skin and flakiness. Thinning of the epidermis and degeneration of supporting elastin fibers contribute to moisture loss. It is for this reason many moisturizing products are advertised to prevent the first signs of aging and sun damage. Today's consumer is not so easily enticed. More people are reading labels and scrutinizing ingredients, looking for plant derived ingredients. Moisturizing products with natural ingredients and therapeutic claims are bringing renewed interest into the skin care industry.

HUMECTANTS

Humectants are ingredients that attract water as it passes through the epidermis (as well as the surrounding air) and are contained in most moisturizers together with occlusive ingredients, which lock in the moisture already contained in the skin. Fats, polyunsaturated oils such as apricot kernel, olive, and avocado oils are common occlusive ingredients used in moisturizers.

Aloe vera, chamomile, elder flower, rosemary, sage and yarrow all offer moisturizing benefits to the skin and are compatible with formulas containing humectants and occlusive ingredients. In addition, these extracts offer soothing, softening, calmative and anti-inflammatory advantages.

i. BOTANICAL EXTRACTS

These botanical extracts are produced from the selected and purest raw materials collected all around the world and processed by using the most advanced low temperature extraction under vacuum. These botanical extracts are all water soluble making them well suited for astringents, mists, masques, lotions, gels, and some creams (due to the delicate HLB - hydro lipid balance). For the more nourishing night creams and eye creams, an addition of a custom blending ingredient may upset the emulsion and therefore should be avoided.

Usually for custom blending; 1.0% - 5.0% of an ingredient is used according to the type and sensitivity of the skin. The selection and combinations of the botanical extracts for different custom products can be chosen according to the functional benefits they offer a specific skin type. Recommended for customizing, manufacturing and external use only.

Custom blending items are for dilution only. Do not use directly on the skin.
